Peer Support Program

The Peer Support Program is a team of trained colleagues, from across disciplines, who provide confidential, individual support to any staff experiencing personal or workplace stress. This may include meeting one-on-one or providing support via telephone, virtual meeting, or email. Peers may act as a resource for information or provide referrals. The peer team may also be mobilized following a traumatic event to provide immediate support to staff by conducting a Critical Incident Stress Debriefing, allowing teams to decompress before returning to work.
